Welcome to the October 2010 edition of the Radio HF Internet Newsletter. This month's Newsletter is very late, due mainly to me spending a completely frustrating 3 days trying to work with Adobe Acrobat. After some very trying times and some very supportive customer and technical support technicians at Adobe, the problem has finally been solved. The learning curve of the new software though is a whole other thing! I'm getting too old for all of this tech-y stuff.Thanks for your patience. Things should hopefully be back on schedule for next month.

I hope you had the chance to watch some of the dramatic and exciting footage from the rescue of the coal miners in Chile earlier this week. It is just amazing what the human mind is able to come up with, particularly in this case in the field of engineering. Hopefully this experience will shed some light into the mining industry in general and the risks that miners face each and every day. As a result I've included a few links about mining, particularly coal mining and miners in this issue.

In addition, our Monthly Special Zone features websites about United Nations Day and, of course, Halloween.

Our virtual voyage around the world, in the "Where in the World Zone", this month takes us to the Indian Ocean and the island nation of Mauritius. Officially called the Republic of Mauritius, it is located off the southeast coast of the African continent in the southwest Indian Ocean, about 900 kilometres (560 mi) east of Madagascar. In addition to the island of Mauritius, the Republic includes the islands of Cargados Carajos, Rodrigues and the Agalega Islands. Mauritius Island is part of the Mascarene Islands, with the French island of Réunion 200 km (120 mi) to the southwest and the island of Rodrigues 570 km (350 mi) to the northeast.

Let's get to our listing of interesting sites this month. Given such little input from contributors this month, and time constraints on me this month, I do not have as large a selection of sites as usual, but I still believe you'll find some interesting items here.

Please take a few minutes to send along one or two of your favourite webpages to share with our subscribers. Our contributions continue to rest at record lows for several months now. I really encourage you to send along a link or two that you feel would be of interest to our subscribers. It also helps to make my job as editor so much easier.

UNITED NATIONS DAY

<http://www.un.org/Depts/dhl/unationsday/>

The anniversary of the entry into force of the United Nations Charter -- 24 October 1945 -- has been celebrated as United Nations Day since 1948. It has traditionally been marked throughout the world by meetings, discussions and exhibits on the achievements and goals of the Organization. In 1971, the General Assembly recommended that Member States observe it as a public holiday

PRIME TIME SHORTWAVE

Prime Time Shortwave is a listing of English shortwave broadcast that are updated frequently by webmasters Daniel Sampson and by database administrator Ernest Riley. The schedules are constantly updated from various print and internet sources as well as from monitoring by the webmaster and other shortwave listeners and DXers. The shortwave schedules are available by time, country and frequency format. Also, they are available in ASCII, Dbase and Excel. You will also find links to some of the best radio related websites and to the international broadcasters and time conversion charts (some provided by Craig Braun).
